Fighting tax evasion: EU and Andorra sign new tax transparency agreement

The EU and Andorra have signed a new tax transparency agreement that will make it harder for EU citizens to hide undeclared income in financial institutions in Andorra. This will ensure that both sides are better equipped to detect and pursue tax evaders, who will no longer be able to exploit bank secrecy to hide income and assets abroad.

Commission approves impaired asset management measures for banks in Hungary and Italy

The Commission concluded that the pricing models used by the Hungarian asset management company ensure it will buy non-performing loans at market prices. The Commission also decided that under the state guarantee scheme chosen by the Italian authorities, the State will be remunerated in line with market conditions for the risk it will assume by granting a guarantee on securitised non-performing loans.

	Long-term unemployment: Council Recommendation– frequently asked questions The number of long-term unemployed persons doubled between 2008 and 2014 and currently account for half of total unemployed in the EU. In the third quarter of 2015 long-term unemployment affected 10.5 million people (4.3% of the active EU population), 63% of whom have been out of work for more than two years. Long-term unemployment is an acute problem because the longer people are out of work, the more problematic it is to return. Long-term unemployed persons - people who are out of work for over a year - have about twice as low chances of finding employment than the other unemployed. Many risk leaving the labour market altogether. Each year, a fifth even stop trying to find a job and are classified as inactive. http://europa.eu/rapid/press-release MEMO-16-302 en.htm?locale=en
