

Analyzing the rights of national minorities in Ukraine between 2012-2019

Abstract

her study conducts investigation of minority policy since 2012 to 2019 A country's minority policy can be characterized best by legislation concerning minorities. Ethnic division has always been present in Central Eastern Europe, however, after the regime change it came to the fore since the driving force of a Western-oriented parliamentary democracy is the rule of law, where the minority policy plays an important role.
